

BROADVIEW NETWORKS ANNOUNCES COMMERCIAL AGREEMENT WITH DYNALINK COMMUNICATIONS

Broadview to Deliver a Broad Suite of T1 Services to Growing Carrier

RYE BROOK, NY--(BUSINESS WIRE)--January 31, 2006-- Broadview Networks, a leading facilities-based communications provider in the Northeast, today announced a key commercial agreement with Dynalink Communications. Under the agreement, Dynalink will leverage Broadview's network and software platform for Integrated T1, Data T1, PRI and DSL services throughout its entire footprint.

"We are pleased to partner with a company that has the product breadth, network depth and the back office expertise necessary to meet our needs," said Larry Fishelson, chief operating officer of Dynalink.

"Broadview's patented operational systems, automated processes and their high level of responsiveness set them apart from the competition."

"We are excited about Dynalink's potential for T1-based services and welcome the opportunity to grow along with their business," said Michael Hou, Broadview Networks' senior vice president of Wholesale Services.

"Our comprehensive ability to service other carriers has enabled several service providers to rapidly expand their product line and market reach in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania over the last 5 years."

"The agreement with Dynalink reinforces our position as a value added provider in the Wholesale T1 market," said Brian Crotty, president and chief operating officer of Broadview Networks. "Our continued success marketing T1, VoIP, Data Colocation and POTS services through this channel is directly tied to our product, service and network strengths."
